WEDDINGS

Tuxedo Episcopal Church, Calgary, was the scene of a quiet wedding Saturday evening, when Elma Grace Smith, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Smith, and Harold Carrington, known here as Spunk Sparrow, were united in marriage. Rev. W. H. Morgan officiating.

Her father gave the bride in marriage and Miss Margaret Gray acted as bridesmaid. Frank Carrington was his brother's groomsmen.

Increased Wheat Demand Expected.

According to well informed sources here an increased demand for Canadian wheat from Europe, with an improvement in prices, may be expected shortly. This is due to the fact that while stocks are fairly large at Liverpool they are small at many of the continental European ports. While the crop estimate for Australia has been increased that for the Argentine has been reduced, and thus there is no material change in the world's crop. In many of the European countries, particularly Germany, Italy and Austria, prices have risen in relation to the Canadian price, and it seems likely that the imports of these countries will increase.

Germany for a while exported considerable quantities of wheat to Great Britain; it now seems likely that this country will have to import, and thus will not be a factor in Canadian competition for the British market.

At the regular meeting of the Tuxis group held on Tuesday evening it was decided to put on their minstrel show on Saturday, March 29th. The boys have been working hard at the practices and believe the people who attend will enjoy themselves and have some hearty laughs.

A very happy group of about twenty-five teen age boys and girls of the Intermediate League, Christian Endeavor, met at the parsonage for an Irish social last Tuesday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Roppel entertained with a carefully chosen list of innocent but laugh-provoking games. Last but not least among these was a quest for good luck, fluency of speech and personal charm, for which nearly all tried to "kiss the blarney stone." At 10 o'clock the social was concluded with a St. Patrick's menu for lunch.

Silver Wedding Celebrated at Coburn.

That germs of goodfellowship are prevalent at Coburn could not be doubted by those present at the school on Friday night, when over a hundred friends and neighbors gathered there to pay their respects to Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Morrison and assist in celebrating their 25th wedding anniversary.

The school was attractively decorated and the evening's festivities were opened by a quadrille, that being the honored couple's favorite dance. Dancing to Coburn Orchestra music occupied the first part of the evening.

At midnight Mr. and Mrs. Morrison were invited outside for a short period during which time a table was placed under a great great white bell. The table was artistically laid and on it placed a beautifully decorated wedding cake, made by Mrs. Outten, cut flowers and a silver tea service and tray. An aisle was formed and the trembling bride and pale groom were escorted to the center. Led by Mrs. Jackson, the guests sang "For they are jolly good fellows," then three rousing cheers ascended heavenward.

Mr. Bridge expressed in a few well-chosen words the esteem in which this worthy couple and family are held by their friends and the community, and as a token of regard presented Mr. and Mrs. Morrison with the tea service and tray, the gifts of those present.

For this he was graciously thanked by both bride and groom, and then followed congratulations.

Supper followed with culinary triumphs at their peak. When the material man had appeared, a treat was afforded in the form of a humorous reading by Mrs. J. Fisher, responded to a very hearty encore.

Dancing was again resumed and the happy affair came to a close amidst hearty congratulations.

The annual ball given by the Didsbury Oddfellows on St. Patrick's night sustained their reputation for providing a good time. The hall was tastefully decorated with lodge emblems and St. Patrick's decorations. Crossfield orchestra provided good peppy music and Tom Sharman and C. Adshad saw to it that crowd kept on the move and had a good time. Supper was served by members of the lodge.

Mr. and Mrs. Eubank were given a complete surprise on Friday evening last when thirty-five of their friends and neighbors gathered to spend an evening with them before they leave Didsbury to reside in Edmonton.

Cards, music and games were enjoyed and the guests of honor were presented with a dozen sherbet glasses and a fountain pen to remind them of the esteem of their Didsbury friends.

After living in town for about nine years they moved to the farm near Elkton, where they resided until the death of Mr. Geib in December, 1928. TINY DAVEY LEE COMES AS STAR OF "SONNY BOY."

Davey Lee, the world's best-loved child, shortly after having passed his fourth birthday, was raised to stardom and "Sonny Boy," his first starring picture, a Warner Bros. picture, comes to the Didsbury Theatre, Friday, March 28.

"Sonny Boy" has none of the heart-rending tragedy of "The Singing Fool" which caused oceans of tears to be shed over the adorable Davey, and yet its appeal is as great.

"Sonny Boy" is a comedy of domestic life. Sonny Boy's parents, having disagreed, his mother's sister kidnaps Davey, to make the father come to time. The picture is well-cast and well-directed but it is the tantalizing personality of tiny Davey that dominates.

He is so very tiny, his eyes have such an elfin twinkle, and his wink is so captivating, that audiences are in a state of continual "oh's" and "ah's," and their laughter is strangely near the verge of tears.

Davey is supported by a star cast including Betty Bronson, Edward Everett Horton, Gertrude Olmsted, John T. Murray, Tommy Dugan, Lucy Beaumont, Edmund Breese, and Jed Prouty. The story is by Leon Zuardo. C. Granam Baker did the scenario and Archie L. Mayo directed.

The True Spirit

At the first showing at Ottawa of the moving picture record of the great Boy Scout Jamboree, held in England last summer, in which 50,000 boys from all parts of the world participated, His Excellency, the Governor-General, Lord Willingdon, in an introductory speech, spoke to the Boy Scouts and Girl Guides present "very particularly and in all seriousness," saying:

"You, young as you are, must know, we all know, that since the years of the Great War, all the nations of the world have been striving by conferences, by pacts and agreements, and by personal negotiations to get rid of the terror of future warfare. The League of Nations has during the past ten years done a great and noble service to secure this end. But I am inclined to feel myself that this younger League of Nations is the most hopeful organization to achieve what we are striving for."

"Under this association you are all growing up filled with the spirit of goodwill and good fellowship to all others, to do your good turn each day to one another, in whatever country your future work may find you, whatever the race and colour of that other may be. I beg of you all to let that spirit guide you in your future lives, for it is by that spirit which teaches us to think well and not ill of our neighbour, that we shall in time attain our great goal, peace among the nations of the world."

These words of His Excellency are most timely because, if there is any one thing calculated to nullify the efforts of statesmen in all countries, destroy the unifying work of many organizations, and bring to naught the prayers of millions of people, it is the persistent and poisonous propaganda of a few evil-minded persons who see gain for themselves, or temporary advantage for some cause they espouse, through the division of peoples and nations along racial or religious lines, and the cultivation of feelings of suspicion, ill-will, and antagonism among and between them.

It is probably too much to hope that those individuals who are serving their own selfish ends by such unpatriotic conduct at home, and destructive of peace and brotherhood abroad, will cease from their evil ways. They are fully alive to the harm they are doing, but that counts for nothing with them because they are reaping some small and temporary selfish benefit themselves. But there are bright hopes for the future if the boys and girls today learn the better way, and in the activities of everyday life emulate the life and example of the Great Teacher who went about doing good to all men, who taught men that love is better than hate, who refused to recognize any distinction between men of different races or creeds, but emphasized at all times the common brotherhood of man and Fatherhood of God.

Just as the serpent brought evil and discord into the first Garden of Eden, so do the serpents of today in many disguises seek to keep alive all the ill-will, suspicions, prejudices and passions engendered in the bygone years of a less civilized era in the world's history. These fermentors of strife at home are the first line of defence maintained by those who desire for gain to keep the nations armed to the teeth, and who foment and precipitate wars.

The League of Nations is striving with every means at its control to allay racial suspicions and ill-will. While engaged with practical problems of disarmament, and other concrete causes of strife, the League is devoting possibly even more attention to educational influences. The efforts made to raise the status of women and children in backward countries, to improve labor countries everywhere, to put an end to white slavery and the traffic in narcotics, all have as their underlying object the removal of causes of friction, misunderstandings, and ill-will among people, and the development of a spirit of world brotherhood. The Balkans have long been recognized as the danger spot of Europe, and the reason is found in racial and religious suspicions and prejudices. Once these can be allayed, peace in Europe will be largely assured.

Lord Willingdon sees in the Boy Scouts and Girl Guides one of the most hopeful movements for future world peace, while Sir Phillip Gibbs has declared that the Junior Red Cross in banding the youth of all nations under the common banner of service for humanity, offers the most hopeful sign of the dawning of a better day. The Y.M.C.A. is engaged in the same work among young men of all races, colours and creeds.

Evil-minded men may stir up strife for a time here and there; they may appear to reap a measure of success; but it is temporary, and when the passion of the moment subsides, and people realize how they have been fooled for an ulterior purpose, it will be found their actual achievements have been nil. Hate may influence people for a time, but love in the long run will conquer. It always has; it always will, for love alone is enduring.

When Pain Comes

What many people call indigestion very often means excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. And the best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 60 years since its invention. One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali in water will neutralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this. Go get a small bottle to try.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 60 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any drugstore.

Interpreters At Geneva

Speeches Have To Be Translated Into English and French

Dr. Caroline MacDonald, of London, Ontario, who has spent many years in Tokio, in social service and prison reform work, last year accompanied the Japanese labor representative to the International Labor Conference in Geneva, as interpreter. This was no easy task, the Eastern and Western languages differing so radically. During the ten days' preparation in Geneva for the great conference, which lasted three weeks, Dr. MacDonald had to translate all speeches from the Japanese to the English, as English and French were official languages to be used, and following the address of the Japanese representative, she mounted the tribune and gave it in English to the non-Japanese speaking section of the audience.

The interpreters at Geneva are the eighth wonder of the world, says Dr. MacDonald. By an ingenious arrangement of telephones in the hall of meeting, interpretation of the speeches into two or more languages follows one sentence after the actual delivery. Telephones were at each desk, and each member dialed on whatever language they wished to hear.

ARE YOU RUN DOWN AND NERVOUS?

All That Is Needed Is a Tonic To Build Up the Blood

There are thousands of people who really find life a burden. They have endured nervousness, sleeplessness and a general run-down feeling so long that they have given up hope of again enjoying good health. Rest and a blood-building tonic are all that is required to restore health and vitality. Such a tonic is found in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They are recognized the world over as a wonderful blood-builder and nerve restorer.

Mrs. F. C. Granier, Toronto, Ont., bears testimony to the worth of these pills. She says:—"Five years ago, after a life of perfect health, I became ill. Not seriously at first, just no appetite, no pep and no sleep. I gradually grew worse. I became pale and listless; my arms and feet were badly swollen and although I doctored all winter my condition did not improve. In the spring I went to see a specialist and he sent me to the hospital where I remained for seven weeks. I left the hospital in worse condition than when I entered it and went home a nervous wreck. I remained ill at home all summer and entered the hospital again in the fall where I was under observation for three weeks and although everything possible was done for me I did not improve. Shortly after this a friend advised me to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a blood builder so I sent for a supply. I do not know when I first noticed an improvement in my condition. It seemed to come to me gradually. I began to sleep better; my meals so long distasteful were being eagerly awaited and enjoyed. I began to show an interest in what was going on around me. The color came back to my face and strength to my limbs. I persisted in the use of the pills and soon I was well and happy again. That is five years ago and ever since I have been able to do all my housework and have not had the least return of my former trouble."

If you are feeling run down give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial and new health will be yours. You can get them from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Sufferers from catarrh will find that the Oil when used according to directions, will give prompt relief. Many sufferers from this ailment have found relief in the Oil and have sent testimonials.

An Ailing CHILD

Are you prepared to render first aid and quick comfort the moment your youngster has an upset of any sort? Could you do the right thing—immediately—though the emergency came without warning—perhaps tonight? Castoria is a mother's standby at such times. There is nothing like it in emergencies, and nothing better for everyday use. For a sudden attack of colic, or the gentle relief of constipation; to allay a feverish condition, or to soothe a fretful baby that can't sleep. This pure vegetable preparation is always ready to ease an ailing youngster. It is just as harmless as the recipe on the wrapper reads. If you see Chas. H. Fletcher's signature, it is genuine Castoria. It is harmless to the smallest infant; doctors will tell you so.

You can tell from the recipe on the wrapper how mild it is, and how good for little systems. But continue with Castoria until a child is grown.

Life Saved By Hymn

British Soldier Suspected Of Being a Spy, Had Narrow Escape

How a British soldier escaped death as a suspected spy at the hands of the French by singing a hymn, was related to the Chapel-en-le-Frith (Derbyshire) Board of Guardians.

The man Joseph G. Davidson, who had sought relief during a recent indisposition, served with the Expeditionary Force in France during the war. He was taken prisoner, and after spending 2½ years at various camps in Germany escaped into the French lines. Here inquiries were made about Davidson, and information was received from the British G. H. Q. that the man had been killed in action.

The French promptly ordered him to be shot as a spy, but a few hours before the firing party were ordered out, a wounded British soldier asked Davidson if he could sing. He sang "Abide With Me," and this so impressed his captors, that they made further inquiries, and eventually released Davidson.

An Unusual Picture

Sunset On Moon Taken With Motion Picture Camera

Motion pictures showing sunset on the moon was one of the features of the annual exhibit of the Carnegie Institution, of Washington. The film was made at the Mt. Wilson Observatory, in California, with a motion picture camera attached to the great 100-inch reflecting telescope. Like the earth, the moon rotates, thus causing the sun to rise, cross the sky and set, but as the moon takes twenty-seven and one-third days, instead of twenty-four hours to rotate, lunar sunrise and sunset are more leisurely than the earthly variety. Because there is no atmosphere on the moon, there is no twilight, and the sunset represents a sharp change from brilliant sunlight to darkness, instead of the gradual diminution of light on the earth. The film shows the shadows of the lunar mountains crawling across the surface. The actual times occupied in the taking of the film was five and one-half hours, but it is speeded up in projection, and runs through in a minute and a half.

Western Canada's Seaport Will Be Scene Of Great Activity During The Coming Summer

When Churchill, on Hudson Bay, Canada's newest seaport is opened sometime in the summer of this year, it will be the scene of an interesting social experiment. The land within the limits of the townsite will not be sold but will be leased by the Manitoba Government, under whose administration the townsite comes.

Since Churchill was chosen in 1917, as the seaboard terminal of the Hudson Bay Railway, it has been a great camp, with hundreds of workers engaged in harbour and railway construction in the summer and a small staff in charge of the plant in winter. But, as the chief depot of the new trans-Atlantic route by way of Hudson Bay, it is expected to be at once a centre of important interests, such as transportation, mining, grain handling and fishery. The harbour improvements that have been planned cannot be finished earlier than 1932, and the presence of the army of workmen engaged in this development will give the new town a favourable start. Rail connection is now completed over the whole stretch of 511 miles from The Pas to Churchill. Regular trains run over a part of the line, but winter connection is not maintained at present to the Bay. The entire line will, it is expected, be in regular operation in the spring of 1931.

Though the future of Churchill is regarded very favourably by many, the inflation which has attended such sentiment in the case of other prospective railway centres has been wholly prevented by the refusal of the Manitoba Government so far to give rights in lands of the townsite. The provincial government of Manitoba, availing itself of facilities afforded by Dominion authority, has prepared plans for the development of several towns of the north, including Churchill. It is expected that Churchill will be open to newcomers early next summer. The effects of planning and of the new system of landholding will then be seen.

The Hudson Bay Railway has been built by the Canadian Government and will be operated by the Canadian National Railways.

Cheapest Form Of Selling

Newspaper Ads Pay Best and Bring Quick Returns

"I know of no other method at once so quickly productive of results as advertisements in the Press," said Sir Charles Higham, at the Institute of the Motor Trade dinner, in London.

The cheapest and most effective way by which the local dealer, or anyone else, could advertise, was in the Press. They all knew, he said, that unemployment could only be solved by selling more goods.

"The public," Sir Charles added, "know that newspapers do not accept advertising for unreliable goods or services, and that they can buy the goods advertised with the confidence that they are worth what is asked for them, and that they are guaranteed. Such is the power of Press advertising today, that it has become the cheapest form of selling."

Have Taken To Air

People Of North Country Substituting Planes For Dog Teams

Practically all other means of travel in Mackenzie River district have now been superseded by the airplane, according to H. C. Ingram, inspector of civil aviation, who has just returned from an inspection trip over the airlines running to Aklavik, Yukon territory.

Mr. Ingram declared he was unable to travel the full route owing to the fact that he was delayed by fog. He went as far as Fort Resolution, 750 miles north of McMurray, returning with "Punch" Dickens of the Western Canada Airways. He reported the people of that part of the country to be fully air-minded. He observed only two dog teams along the northern route.

Manitoba Buttermakers

Carried Off Dominion Butter Championship At Ontario Convention

Manitoba buttermakers, at the recent convention of the Western Ontario Dairymen's Association, in London, Ontario, carried off the Association's trophy, emblematic of the Dominion's butter championship, according to Frank Horne, secretary of the Association. It is the first time in the Association's seven years of operation that the trophy has been taken out of Ontario—in this instance to go to the Manitoba Co-Operative Dairy, of Brandon. Yeast and mould scores were taken into account and a chemical analysis made at Ottawa. This caused a delay in announcing the winner.

In addition, the town is a terminus for the British Columbia Electric.

National Museum At Ottawa a Treasure House of Wealth and Monument of Canadian Progress

Dr. Charles Camsell, L.L.D., F.R.G.S., Deputy Minister, Department of Mines, Ottawa, addressing the Professional Civil Servants of Canada and their friends in Ottawa recently, said in part:

I would like you, for a few minutes, to share with me a vision that has gripped the minds of some of us during the last few years. Looking ahead forty or fifty years, we see Canada, the home of a strong and prosperous people with twice or thrice the population it possesses today. Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver, are great centres of world commerce, known to every school child in Europe as well as in America. Ottawa remains the political heart of Canada, a city unequalled on this continent for the beauty of its surroundings and the dignity of its public buildings. It is the pride of Canada, and the admiration of all America, a capital city worthy of the prosperous and progressive nation that holds a leading place among the nations of the world.

Here within this city of Ottawa, the capital of Canada, we see, amid other structures, a large and splendid building containing inside its walls a picture in miniature of the country's wealth and natural resources. We see a National Museum of Canada, a museum that houses samples of every rock and mineral, every animal, bird and fish, every seed and plant, and every variety of timber, that can be found on Canadian soil, or in Canadian waters, from Nova Scotia to British Columbia, and from the International Boundary to the Arctic Islands; a sample of every object that has its home within our territory and contributes to its prosperity and beauty. This National Museum is a treasure-house of our national wealth, a monument of our national achievements, and an educational and research institution that proclaims our natural resources and investigates some of our national problems. Everything that early explorers set their eyes upon is represented there—Indians clad in furs and armed with war-clubs or with bows and arrows; the buffalo, the beaver and the various bears; rare flowers from the Rocky Mountains, fine timbers from the British Columbia coast, and nuggets of gold and silver from the different provinces and mines. Here, too, is every natural object that concerns the farmer; types of soil and their special qualities, different varieties of wheat and methods of combating their diseases, all the fruits and vegetables and the ways of controlling their insect pests. The prospector, the miner and the geologist find in this museum every rock and ore that exists in the Dominion, with illustrations of their uses and samples of all the products we derive from them. The fisherman sees specimens of every fish, the methods of capturing them and of preparing them for the market. The lumberman sees his timber in every stage of growth, and learns how to fight the beetles that ravage his standing trees. It is a great museum illustrating the natural history of the whole of Canada, a museum that ranks beside the similar museums in New York and Washington, in London, Paris, Berlin and the capital cities of all the greatest countries in Europe and America.

Yet it is not a dead museum, full of dry bones, stuffed animals and rocks covered with the dust flung up by passing motor-cars. Everything within its walls is both attractive and instructive. The children who crowd its doors from mere curiosity learn something unconsciously, the tired business man goes away refreshed and informed, the critical foreigner receives new impressions of the greatness of Canada and its natural wealth. There is a special staff to answer enquiries, to deliver addresses on Canada's resources, and to send out information to every part of the country. Manufacturers visit or write to the museum for ideas that they can use in their business; industrialists to find out our resources in coal. Cities and towns obtain help in building up local museums in all the provinces; and schools from Halifax and Quebec to Vancouver borrow motion pictures that teach our children the geography of Canada, its plants and animals, its mines and its water-powers. There is a research staff that studies the history and the problems of the country, that co-operates with other government departments and with universities and museums throughout the world, and that increases the fame of Canada as a home of science and learning.

This is our vision, and already the Dominion Government has taken the first steps towards its realization. It has established in Ottawa, the foundations of a National Museum, given it a building large enough for the next few years, equipped it with a small but active staff, and allotted a small sum of money each year for its maintenance. The advancement of this institution, the expansion of it into a great museum portraying the resources of the entire country and the achievements of its people, this it lays squarely on the shoulders of the people of Canada themselves. It looks for the support and assistance of every citizen, from the leaders in the financial and commercial world to the laborer on the farm and the workman in the mill. For a National Museum belongs to the entire country, and, like the great museums in London, and Paris, registers the progress and civilization of that country in the eyes of other nations. So I would ask you to share our vision, and to join with us in striving to make it a reality, in building up in Ottawa, the Capital of the Dominion, a National Museum worthy of Canada's rank among the nations.

SAVING THE YOUNGEditor Vegreville Observer Goes on Crusade to Ban the Curse of Marbles

The Observer desires to rouse the citizens of Vegreville to a sense of their duty with respect to a deplorable conditions which is affecting the youth of the town. As the sunny, warm spring approaches, it is most saddening to see the small boys of the town engaging in a pursuit which can lead only to terrible things later on. Playing marbles is perhaps one of the most reprehensible of the signs of spring. Worse than that, the boys play them "for keeps," thus adding the gambling element to the wasted time and energy which should be devoted to the woodpile and the barnyard.

In the hope that the town officials might be induced to see their duty, the Observer interviewed certain of them on the subject. Mayor Holden was the first to be approached. The Mayor hemmed and hawed, like the expert hemmer and hawer he is. He thoughtfully crooked his thumb in the approved shooting form and announced that away back in the misty past, he had been the champ marble and jack shooter of Grey County, Ontario, long before Agnes McPhail, M.P., was born. The Mayor was reluctant to take any steps but advised us to see some of the Council.

Councillor Merl Thomas found it impossible to believe that playing marbles led to worse things. All the same, he said, that when he was young, his papa, Ellis Thomas, was quite sure that he would come to a bad end as he was the champ marble shooter for all the rural schools within a radius of fifteen miles. Merl said he had come to a bad end all right, when he was elected to the Vegreville Town Council.

Councillor Joe Shaw was enthusiastic in supporting our sincere desire to put an end to this disastrous stuff which is corrupting the youth of Vegreville. Joe said he was out of luck as he had no boys to knock over for playing marbles but he was quite willing to knock anybody else's over. Joe said, "We need this marble money to pay our taxes, for this is one tough year, and God knows we are hard up." He added that the wear and tear on the sidewalks through these kids playing marbles should be brought before the council and he would certainly give them one stiff razzing. Our sidewalks, said Joe, should be kept sacred for pedestrians. If a feller steps on a mislaid marble or alley, he is certainly down and out.

Constable Rodgers said he would seize all marbles he could and was glad to render assistance in heading off the sinister influence which was depraving the town boys. He said he wanted the marbles to put in the beds of the fire brigade boys, so they could slip out faster when an alarm was given. Roller-bearing action, says Bill, is what my fire brigade boys need. I am with you to the last alley, said Bill.

CALENDAR REFORM CAMPAIGN GROWING

Active propaganda has been resumed both in Canada and the United States in favor of the adoption of the proposed fixed calendar of thirteen months of four weeks each.

The suggestion, already favorably considered by the League of Nations, is largely a Canadian founding. While it was largely and variously debated prior and subsequent to its submission to the League interest ebbed during the past year. Apparently a concerted effort has been launched to press the question into the foreground anew and debates as to its acceptability are notably common.

A review of the general attitude suggests apathy on the part of the great majority and concentrated opposition from Jews and Sabbatarians, the Jewish objection being mainly based that once each year and twice in leap years the Sabbath would fall on the eighth day, contrary to the Jewish doctrine of Divine command.

Fixed calendar advocates reply that the alleged economic hardships, or civil disabilities are not civil abridgements of any individual's rights, but are inconveniences he must experience simply because of his particular religious creed and convictions.

In addition to the thirteen months of four weeks the fixed calendar would provide for giving one day each year a non-week-day name such as "year day" and by giving the additional day in leap year a non-week-day name such as "leap day."

Ottawa has been the source of a great deal of the propaganda favorable to the changed calendar and the reaction here can be more clearly gauged than in most centres. The whole thing is regarded more in the light of an interesting academic argument rather than a reform which is of any vital concern to this generation.

WHAT OTHER EDITORS ARE SAYING*FREE PUBLICITY

In the past this paper has received numerous requests for free publicity, most of which we have ignored, or thrown the copy into the waste paper basket. In this respect Government Departments, together with certain corporations and organizations we could name, are the worst offenders. While the latest request from the Department of Public Health for "co-operation may have a great deal of merit, yet we feel the time has arrived when newspapers should no longer be expected to shoulder the whole responsibility of placing many of the campaigns free of charge before the public.

Last week we received a letter from the secretary of a certain cattle breeders' association in Alberta, enclosing copy of an auction sale, with the following terse request: "To the Editor, I would deem it a favor if you could find space for this reader in your paper." Needless to say, it was immediately torn up and consigned to the waste paper basket.

Then there are many others we could mention as well, "scratch" or "throwing a sprat to catch a whale" variety, who usually flood us betimes with their propaganda, and who have long since ceased to be a factor with us regarding requests for free publicity.

We, for one, along with the rest of Alberta publishers, intend in future to take a strong stand against this growing evil of giving away our stock in trade—Advertising space. This is principally a newspaper's whole source of revenue, and if publishers complied with every request for free publicity it would be impossible for them to exist. It should be realized—and we have had it intimated to us by some—that the publication of a weekly newspaper should be regarded as a business standing on its own feet alongside other business undertakings, and that consequently it is unfair to expect it to shoulder the whole responsibility of putting over the publicity of many so-called worthy objects or campaigns touching the interest of residents in a community—urban as well as rural.

RED CROSS AT THE PORTS

Red Cross lecturers have many tales to tell of their audiences at various towns and villages in Alberta. Very often it may be a story of war days when the Greatest Mother had thousands of sick soldiers in her hospitals overseas. Occasionally it is a story of more recent events such as the following, which was told to the writer at a lecture in the north:

A woman whose accent proclaimed her from the Old Country commented on that her first experience of Canada was of her reception by the Red Cross at the port.

"We landed at Halifax," she said, "and everyone was feeling strange lonesome and homesick. We and our big family had been sick the whole way over, you know what that means, with half a dozen children. Food was distasteful, and the ship's tea far from our usual cup at home. I shall never forget the surprise I had on seeing the Red Cross nurses waiting for us. They took us in to a large room with tea kettles singing on the stove and soon I was resting in an armchair with a hot steaming cup of the best tea I ever had. I'll never forget how good it tasted. The children were also given refreshments, and the baby put to bed in a little cot. It all seemed so wonderfully kind that we were quite cheered up and felt a warm welcome. That is why I like the Red Cross in Canada, they are good to strangers, and not only welcome you at the ports, but take a real interest in you when the children are sick."

A series of radio broadcasts has been inaugurated by the Canadian Pacific Railway every Friday night from 10 to 11 over CKAC in Montreal and CKGW in Toronto with possibility of extension to other major Canadian cities in the near future. The basis of the programme has been organized under the baton of Rex Battle, whose work as the director of concert orchestras in Montreal and latterly at the Royal York, Toronto, has won him great popularity. A small opera company has been organized for the production of light ballad operas such as have featured the Canadian Pacific Music Festivals at Toronto, Winnipeg, Regina, Vancouver and Victoria, and these will be given under the direction of Alfred Heather, well-known character actor and impresario. Ballad operas in French produced at the Quebec Festival, together with French-Canadian folk songs, will be produced under the direction of Charles Marchand, popular folksinger. The larger illustration shows a sea-chantey scene from the ballad, "Bound for the Rio Grande," with inset of John Goss, who will star in the radio production. The other insets are of Rex Battle, leader of the orchestra, and Alfred Heather, character actor and producer of the ballad operas to be broadcast.

Means Plenty Of Work

Recording Australia's Rainfall Is Considered Quite A Task

Australia has an area of 3,000,000 square miles, and the task of recording the rainfall is one of considerable magnitude. Throughout the continent there are no less than 6,000 rain gauges, 900 of which are operated by private citizens, who are all unpaid weather observers. In some parts of Australia the observers have a busy time in the rainy season. In eastern Queensland early this year as much as 10 inches of rain were recorded in 24 hours.

Subsidies For Air Transport Urged

Would Put Passenger Rates On Par With Railway

Subsidies for aerial passenger transport line were urged by Major General J. H. MacBrien, president of the Aviation League of Canada, in a speech at Montreal. In Europe, where such subsidies are paid, aerial passenger rates were on a par with railway rates whereas in Canada the air rates are three times as great as those offered by railroads.

For this reason the passenger branch of air transport was not progressing.

General MacBrien urged the formation of a branch of aviation to be known as aerial service in which all companies would co-operate to eliminate wasteful competition and work for greater development of the industry.

The Saskatoon Western Producer notes that, "with a total of 2,327, Saskatchewan took the lead among the four western provinces for the number of construction contracts awarded during the year 1929, according to figures reported to the Saskatchewan Department of Railways, Labor and Industries. This compares with British Columbia's 2,275, Alberta's 2,055, and Manitoba's 1,658. The value of the permits in the province was $34,184,300, or an increase of $14,000,000 over the 1928 total."

Canada To Experiment With Freezing Fish In Transit

Experiments in the freezing of fish in transit by the silica gel process will be conducted by the Department of Fisheries early this summer, it was learned at Ottawa. It has been found in the United States that this method of refrigeration is eminently satisfactory in the transportation of pre-chilled fish, but the Canadian Department desire to go a step further and ascertain if it is equally as effective for fish that has not been pre-chilled.

Should the experiments prove successful it would mean a saving of about 12½ per cent. in refrigeration space, with a consequent increase by that proportion in the packing of fish cargoes by rail.

Iceland Good Customer For Other Countries

Ahead Of All Nations In Purchases Per Head Of Population

No country in the world buys more, per head of population, in foreign countries, than Iceland.

The people who think that Iceland is nothing more than a skating-rink by nature, we learn from the London Daily Telegraph, will be surprised to know that it is the best customer exporters have in other countries. What is more, says Howard Little, in this London newspaper, although Iceland is compelled to make relatively enormous purchases, the annual credit balance stands high, and shows a tendency to increase, Mr. Little continues:

"Iceland has modernized herself rapidly, in spite of difficulties, natural and imposed. Neither iron, timber, building stone, cement, coal, nor salt, are produced within her own borders. All these essentials must be brought overseas, and possibly hauled many miles into the interior over hard ground, where there is at present no road.

"In 1889, when I first visited Iceland, the capital, Reykjavik, was a town of some three thousand inhabitants, and boasted neither harbor nor roads. Nothing went on wheels. Today Reykjavik has a fine harbor, the construction of which was actually commenced in 1913, interrupted by the war, and, because of the necessity of continued enlargement, is in part not yet completed. The inhabitants of the town number 26,000, and there are some 500 motor vehicles, all of which are kept particularly busy. The main roads have a good surface, and other roads within and leading from the capital are also being improved."

Iceland's Parliament House, University and Museum, it is then related, are in many important respects models of what these institutions should be. Indeed the claim is made, and with some show of reason, we are advised, that Iceland's Althing is, in reality, the "Mother of Parliaments." The thousandth anniversary of the first meeting of the Althing, will be celebrated next June, and this informant adds:

"Fifty-four years ago Iceland was left in a condition of poverty and without business experience. Her people, by their own unaided efforts, have brought about many remarkable changes. Moreover, this has been done in spite of natural disadvantages, and in face of something worse than mere indifference from the outside world—that world which the people of Iceland have actually led in the discovery of new lands and in the founding of self-supporting colonies." —Literary Digest.

"I thought the room over the kitchen would be easier to heat in winter."
"The idea!" snapped Grandma. "That's where I used to put my hired girl!"

"And it's the most comfortable bedroom in the house," retorted Charmian. "I'd have taken it myself long ago, if I hadn't wanted to be nearer to you. But let's not worry over that question. He can decide it himself when the doctor brings him in on Saturday. Perhaps after his inspection he'll have none of us."

"Well, well," Grandma repeated, "it'll be a great change. I don't know as I like the idea—hardly. He may be fussy, and want milk in his tea instead of cream, like Deacon Purdie."

"Let's hope he does," laughed Charmian as she moved away. "It'll be that much cheaper feeding him!"

"Hush!" reproved the old lady. "Would you begrudge the poor man a dash of cream?"

It was a sunshiny Saturday when the doctor's dusty car stopped before the old Davis house. Grandma, peering from the window as usual, drew a breath of relief as she viewed the stranger who stood beside Doctor Howe, and was, evidently, admiring the carved pineapple above the door.

Yes, he was young, she decided, but not too young. He was past the age when he would thoughtlessly track dirt into the house (if a man ever is past that age!), and he wasn't old enough to be set in his ways—not thirty surely. He probably wouldn't notice whether his tea contained milk or cream; and he had fine, straight legs. Grandma had once begun wooed by a youth who was slightly knock-kneed, and, as she told Charmian, after sixty years the remembrance still made her shiver.

"The Davises were all tall and straight," she continued. "That's one reason I took to your grandpa. There wasn't a knock-knee or a bow-leg in the family. They walked like soldiers."

"And he does, too," mused the old lady, as she watched the newcomer move toward the house. Then the doctor looked up and waved to her, and in another moment was in the doorway.

"Well, Grandma," he began cheerfully, "this is John Carter. You see I kept my word and brought him in for you and Charmian to inspect. This is Grandma Davis, Doctor—Grandma to the whole town, and keeper of the village watchtower. We couldn't get along without her."

Grandma looked up and smiled, her eyes, bright as a bird's, meeting those of the young man as he took her hand and bent above it in a deferential manner of a bygone day.

She was thinking: "Somebody taught him his manners, anyway, and respect for age." She said, motioning her guests to be seated, "I supposed it was the other way round, and you were to inspect us. That's how Charmian put it. She's been cleaning the house from top to bottom, as if she thought you'd inspect the ice box and the attic," she added with a twinkle. "Charmian's my granddaughter, as the doctor's most likely told you. She'll be here in a minute. She just ran over to Lizzie Baker's with a half a cup o' cornmeal Lizzie forgot to order, as usual, and wanted to make an Indian pudding for her supper. Seems as if Indian pudding would set sort of heavy on the stomach come night, doesn't it?—but the Bakers can digest nails or horseshoes, as my father used to say, and which you'll find is true, young man, if ever you're called there—not that you will be, though, while our doctor has a leg to stand on."

"Hush!" laughed the old man. "Would you discourage him at the very start?"

"I'm only warning him," said Grandma. "Wickfield folks are set in their ways, and you're one of 'em, Edward, if I do say it to your face. Maybe you'll think it's disrespectful, my calling the doctor by his first name," she added to the younger man, "but we grew up together here in Wickfield, and I'm not much older than he is though he's caught the habit of saying Grandma like the rest of them. Here's Charmian now. She's seen the automobile and is hurrying. That blue gingham sets pretty on her, doesn't it? She made it herself. Come in, dearie. Here's the doctor and his young man."

Yes, the blue gingham certainly "set pretty on her." This was the prospective boarder's thought as he arose, feasting his eyes on the vision in the doorway. The old doctor was feasting his, as well; and Grandma Davis might have been said to do the same. For Charmian made an astonishingly pretty picture, her cheeks flushed from hurrying, her blue eyes shining, a bit of not unnatural embarrassment making her pause a moment before coming forward.

"Charmian," said the doctor, putting a fatherly arm across her shoulders to draw her nearer, "this is the boy who's promised to help me out if you'll find him a place to live. I knew his father and his grandfather before him, and will vouch for the fact that he won't run off with the Davis candlesticks!"

Charmian laughed as she stretched out a friendly hand which the young doctor took, and forgot to return till the girl drew it away. She said, a smile bringing out the dimples of which her mother had been so proud: "He might not think them worth the bother! They're brass, not silver, Doctor Carter. Would you like to go up now and see the rooms? The east room is larger; but the one in the ell looks toward the river and is very cozy."

"I really needn't look at anything," replied the young man impulsively. "I'll sleep in the attic, if only you'll take me in."

"Well," chuckled Grandma, "the attic's clean, anyway! I told you she'd cleaned everything. You take him up attic, dearie, and show him how pretty it is from the south window. There isn't a nicer view in all Wickfield. But I don't think, young man, that the room over the kitchen is good enough for a—a guest. However, you can take your choice; and as Charmian says, it's easy to heat come winter."

As the young people left the room, the old doctor drew his chair closer to Grandma's.

"Well?" he questioned. "How does the boy strike you, Polly?"

"Dear me," sighed Grandma, a pleased light brightening her eyes, "I don't b'lieve anybody's called me Polly in twenty years. As for that boy, Edward, I like him. He's got manners—not that manners are everything, but they cover a multitude of sins. And he looks you straight in the eye. If his eyes had been shifty, I'd never have consented to take him in. But almost the best thing about him is his legs. He walks like a soldier."

"Yes," laughed the doctor, "his legs seem to be all right; though I wish he were ten pounds heavier."

"We'll have to fat him up," commented Grandma. "His being here will make more work for Charmian, but she says she can stand it. Say, Edward" (lowering her voice), "have you seen that high-flyer that Jim Bennett took to the church sociable?"

The doctor laughed again; but his reply was interrupted by the opening door, and a small boy entered hurriedly.

"It's Jamie Oldham," said Grandma. "You tell your mother that her yarn hasn't come yet; or were you wanting something else?"

"I want the doctor," panted the little boy. "The baby's got an awful stomach ache and Mummy saw the automobile and sent me running. She said to tell you the baby's black in the face already, and for you to hurry."

"Like as not Susy Oldham's been feeding it mince pie," commented Grandma, as the doctor hurried away.

"It's a wonder she's raised any of her children. I suppose Edward will come back for that young man soon as he's turned the baby upside down and given Susy a good talking to. I wonder which room the boy will take. It doesn't seem polite, somehow, to put him in the ell."

The "boy" was standing in the ell at that very moment, exclaiming at the beauty of a big four-posted bed.

"Yes, it's wonderful," said Charmian, touching the carved posts lovingly. "My great-grandfather slept on it. Later it was put in the guest room, and when black walnut came into fashion it was banished to the servants' quarters."

"Delightful quarters for the humble," smiled the young man. "I think I'll choose this room if it's as convenient for you."

"It will be more convenient. It's smaller to care for, and easier to sweep because of the hardwood floor. That Turkish carpet in the east room is gorgeous, but it's a sight of work to clean!"

"Look here!" said the doctor suddenly. "I won't have you cleaning for me. I'll have time enough at first, anyway, to take care of my own domain. I'm a dandy sweeper, and can make a bed as expertly as a trained nurse. Just try me!"

Charmian laughed.

"What would Grandma say? She thinks it's frightful to even offer you this room where she used to keep her hired girl. But I think it's a lovely room with its quaint dormers. Just see the view from this window. Isn't the river adorable from here? When I was a little girl I used to pretend it was a silver ribbon, put there by the fairies. I remember confiding my fancy to Jimmy Bennett, and he laughed. I didn't forgive him for years and years!"

"No wonder!" responded John Carter with instant understanding. "Who is he? I'd like to smash his face for you!"

"You needn't bother," laughed Charmian. "In fact, I wouldn't have hurt him for worlds. Jim is the rising young man of our community, as you will soon learn; and at present is setting the town agog by running after a green hat."

Russia Erecting New Mausoleum For Lenin

Elaborate Ceremonies Will Mark Dedication In October

Behind a great wooden fence, in front of Moscow's famous Kremlin, entirely screened from public view, hundreds of Soviet workmen are battering down the grim wooden tomb in which Vladimir Illich Lenin, "Father of Bolshevism," has slept during the last six years.

On this site is soon to rise a finer and more enduring mausoleum of granite and malachite to house the frail figure of the great revolutionary leader. While these operations are in progress, the embalmed remains of Lenin have been transferred to a special mortuary chamber in the Kremlin, where the coffin is guarded day and night by armed red soldiers.

On the ceiling, under which Lenin will repose in a large, hermetically sealed glass case, will be an armorial ensign of the Soviet Union. Lenin will be garbed in a simple khaki suit of semi-military cut, as at present, and the full length of his body, bearing the order of the "Red Banner" will be exposed to view.

Construction of the new mausoleum is progressing rapidly. It will be completed by October, 1930, when the thirtieth anniversary of the October, 1917, revolution will be celebrated. The most elaborate ceremonies will mark the dedication.

STORMY WEATHER
HARD ON BABY

The stormy, blustery weather which Canadians experience during February and March is extremely hard on babies and young children. Conditions make it necessary for the mother to keep them confined to the house, whose rooms may be overheated or badly ventilated. The little ones catch cold and their whole system becomes racked. To guard against this a box of Baby's Own Tablets should be kept in the home and an occasional dose given the baby to keep him fit, or if a cold suddenly grips him to restore him to health again and keep him in good condition till the brighter, warmer days come along again.

Baby's Own Tablets are just what the mother needs for her little ones. They are a mild but thorough laxative which regulate the bowels, sweeten the stomach; break up colds and simple fevers; banish constipation and indigestion and make the cutting of teeth easy. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Will Cut Illiteracy

An active program will be inaugurated within the next two weeks to reduce the number of people in the United States who cannot read or write before the census takers come in the spring. The object is to show illiteracy so reduced that the nation will not feel humiliation when its figures are compared with those of England, Germany, Switzerland, Norway, Denmark, Japan and other countries that now lead it in this respect.

Needless Suffering

The next time a headache makes you stay at home—

Or some other ache or pain prevents your keeping an engagement—

Remember Aspirin! For there is scarcely any sort of pain it cannot relieve, and relieve promptly.

These tablets give real relief, or millions would not continue to take them. They are quite harmless, or the medical profession would not constantly prescribe them.

Don't be a martyr to unnecessary pain. To colds that might so easily be checked; neuritis, neuralgia; to those pains peculiar to women; or any suffering for which Aspirin is such an effective antidote.

You need not hesitate to take Aspirin. It is safe. It is always the same. It never depresses the heart, so use it as often as needed; but the cause of any pain can be treated only by a doctor.

Didsbury News.

Dear Elmer,
Since writing you I have been thinking the farmer's situation over and have concluded that we are much better off than we really think and have no real need of being pessimists. On the other hand we should be optimistic regarding the 1930 outlook, so I have decided I can afford a new car for this year.

I have been looking over the various models and believe the 1930 Chevrolet offers the biggest dollar value of any car made. It has a swift smooth power and ample hill-climbing ability; steers exceptionally easy; has Lovejoy shock absorbers all around, the finest absorber known; beautiful stream lines; luxuriously built Fischer body and rides like a pullman car.

If you have not already seen this car, go to ADSHEAD'S GARAGE at Didsbury, and ask for a demonstration also an explanation of the General Motors service policy.

Yours for a happy future,
Joe.
